

PD Dr. med. Luc Michel Biedermann

Board certification as specialist for Gastroenterology & Hepatology since 2012 and Internal Medicine since 2008. Clinical practise and research activity in the Division of Gastroenterology & Hepatology of the University Hospital Zurich (USZ), Switzerland, since 2010 focussing on inflammatory bowel disease (IBD). Head of IBD, USZ, since August, 2017. Head of the EoE-outpatient clinic of the USZ with Prof. Alex Straumann since 2016. Member of the Swiss Society of Gastroenterology and Hepatology (SGG), the Swiss Crohn's disease and Ulcerative Colitis Union (SMCCV), the Neurogastro-Motility Network (Swiss NGM), the European Crohn's & Colitis Organisation (ECCO), the European Society for the Study of Celiac Disease (ESsCD) and the American Gastroenterological Association AGA. Member of the Steering Committee of the Swiss IBDnet. Amongst the main clinical and research interests are epidemiology, natural history and course of IBD, clinical trials in IBD, intestinal microbiota in IBD, environmental factors in IBD, fecal transplantation and recurrent Clostridium difficile infection, celiac disease and of course EoE.